

WESTERLY'S NEW COURT HOUSE

Plans of Architect for the Building Approved—Granite Will Be Used If Price Is Right—Big Benefit From Bradford Concern for Westerly.

The commission representing the state of Rhode Island and the town of Westerly, having in charge the erection of the joint court house and town hall building, have approved the plans submitted by the architect, and will now the specifications are being prepared for prospective bidders. As the vote of the town prescribes that the building shall be of granite, the building will be built within the appropriation, necessitating the drawing of two sets of plans, one for a brick building with granite trimmings and one for a granite building. The general design for both buildings is the same, the difference being in the interior and floor plans are identical, while the exterior is practically the same as described in these columns several months ago when the tentative plan for a brick building was first submitted.

If the building is constructed of Westerly granite, the walls will be thicker than of brick, and in that case the rooms will be made a trifle smaller, not enough to change in any material way the general convenience of the building. It is expected that the specifications will be ready and bids for construction invited within two weeks.

The construction of the Bradford Dyeing association at Bradford in the town of Westerly is going forward rapidly and the building is now planned of the plant covering two and one-half acres of land is nearing completion although it will be several months before the mammoth building is ready for occupancy. A local firm has been the contractor for the cotton unit and their work has proven a satisfactory one on Thursday of this week the firm was awarded, without competition, the contract for the woolen unit of this great industry. Preparation for commencement on the new contract have been made and the well under way before the completion of the first contract.

The woolen unit of the plant will be nearly as large as the cotton unit and when completed will represent only one-third of the plant as now planned. The representative of the big English corporation says that the town of Westerly is perhaps winking up to the fact that the corporation is now planning to do in the building line within a year, from the time the town council decided to exempt the Bradford Dyeing association property from taxation for a period of ten years, the corporation insisting to pay the present rate of taxation on the property acquired as that the town would lose nothing in taxes by reason of this big foreign industry locating in the town of Westerly. The plant is destined to be the largest manufacturing establishment in Rhode Island, the state noted for the magnitude of its industries.

Louis Debatolo, age 12, was gathering kindlings at a building in course of construction, when he was struck by a falling beam of wood. The boy, some of it striking the boy in the left eye, causing excruciating pain and endangering the eye. The boy was there with permission and the man who threw the beam declares that it was done in a spirit of fun and with no malicious intent, and he sincerely regrets the incident. The injured boy was placed under medical treatment and it is now believed that the eye-sight will be saved.

George F. Clarke, winner of the silver prize cup in the sailing event at Pleasant View last season, will not compete in the Labor day contest and has delivered the cup to the proper committee, as he will not enter his boat for this year's event. The cup must be won twice out of three trials in order to become actual owner, so Mr. Clarke proposes to give the cup to the committee and place the cup among the other trophies in his collection at his home in Westerly, where it will have prominent and permanent position.

The case of William W. Hiscox against the P. H. Ople company, action to recover the sum of $24.20 alleged to be due for services in writing special advertising matter, was tried in a local paper, was heard before Judge Oliver H. Williams, at Friday's session of the court. Mr. Hiscox testified that he was engaged to do the work by Fred Ople, who stated to him that the P. H. Ople company did a total volume of business during the year of $225,000. The witness said that in addition to the special advertising which was written other advertising matter, and that the charge was reasonable. He testified that Mr. Ople refused to pay the bill and claimed he had no authority to contract such a bill, but no such claim was made until after the presentation of the bill for services.

Judge John W. Seawey, counsel for defendant, moved for nonsuit on the ground that the suit was against the P. H. Ople company, while the evidence showed that the contract was with Fred Ople. Even so, A. Kingsley, counsel for Mr. Hiscox, claimed that Fred Ople was a member and acted for the company and that the contract was by using the advertising matter. The motion was denied. The defendant submitted to the judgment of the court, and claimed a trial by jury.

A woman was charged on the charge of drunkenness and pleaded guilty and for leniency, as it was her first offense. She promised to obtain from intoxicating drink and sentence was suspended for six months.
